PHOENIX – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 20, 2009

LOCATION OF ILLEGAL SUBDIVISIONS CAN BE VIEWED ON GOOGLE EARTH

PHOENIX – On January 15, 2009, the Department of Real Estate inaugurated a program which permits the public to view at the Department's website: www.azre.gov a "map of open cases involving potential illegal subdivisions" via Google Earth. To view, the public must have Google Earth installed. If they do not already have Google Earth installed, they can go to <http://earth.google.com/> and install the free version.

This venue provides consumers another opportunity for awareness and knowledge on problematic areas that may have the potential to hinder their purchase of a home and future harm.

To report complaints, you can email the Department at investigations@azre.gov or call (602) 771-7730. We appreciate your partnership with ADRE in protecting the Public.
